Review

Artist:
Natural Bread

2021, Spring

I forced myself to draw a main character with my inferiority complex. I kept the truth hidden out of sham, and in the end my pride crumbled.

My editor at the time helped me.

It seemed like the hardest day of my life

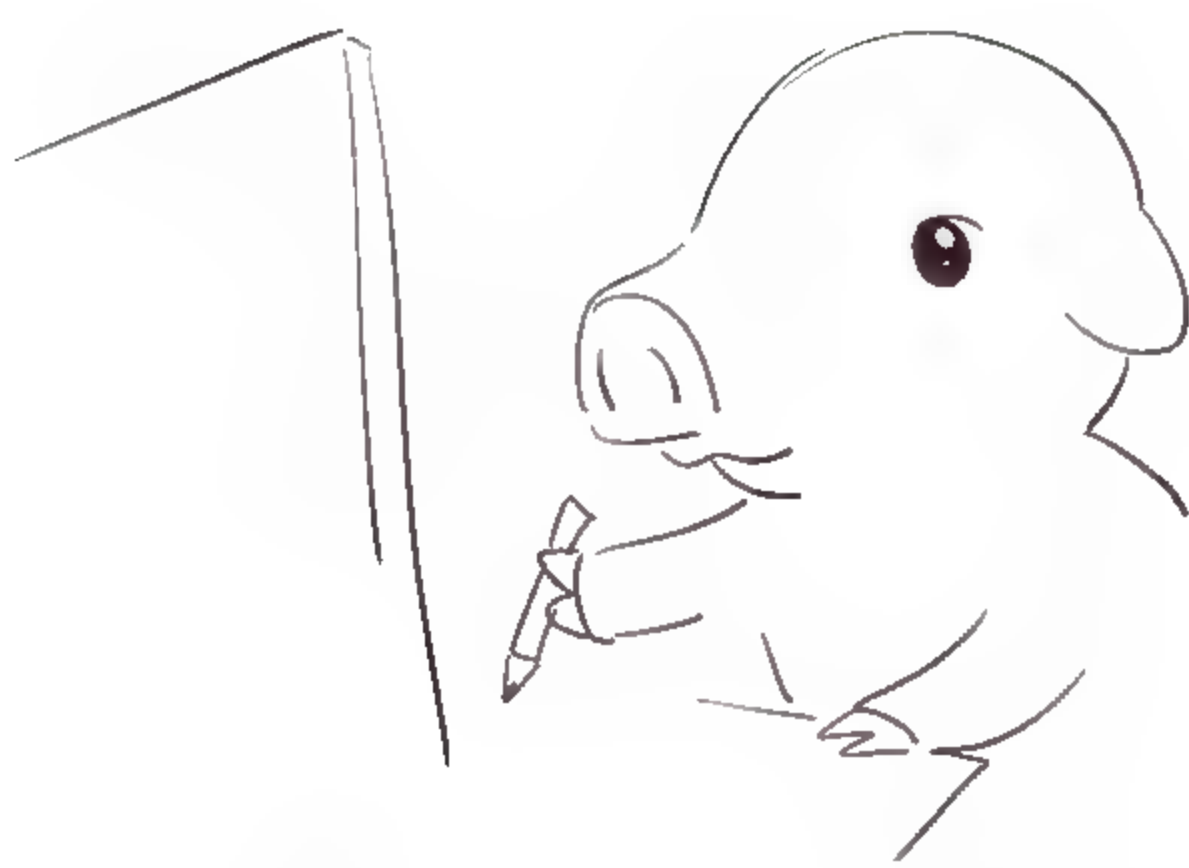

Now that I remember, the watermelon juice was delicious, the afternoon sun was nice and the editor was very respectful of me.

But I lost the respect of my publisher

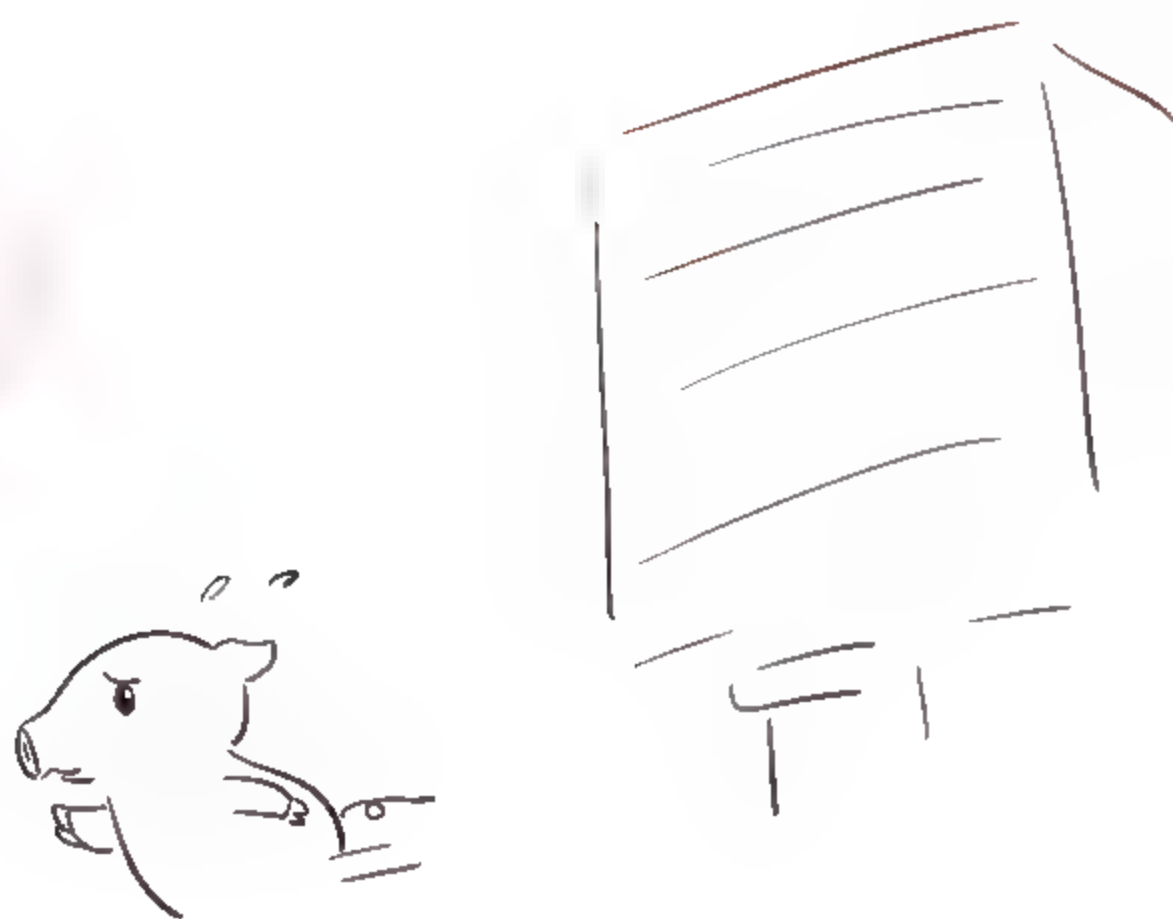

I was sorry, but my apologies faded because they were exaggerated, I had no choice but to remain silent and continue to be a burden.

That burden became one of my reasons for drawing cartoons.

Spring of 22

I was so tired of drawing cartoons that I ran out of work.

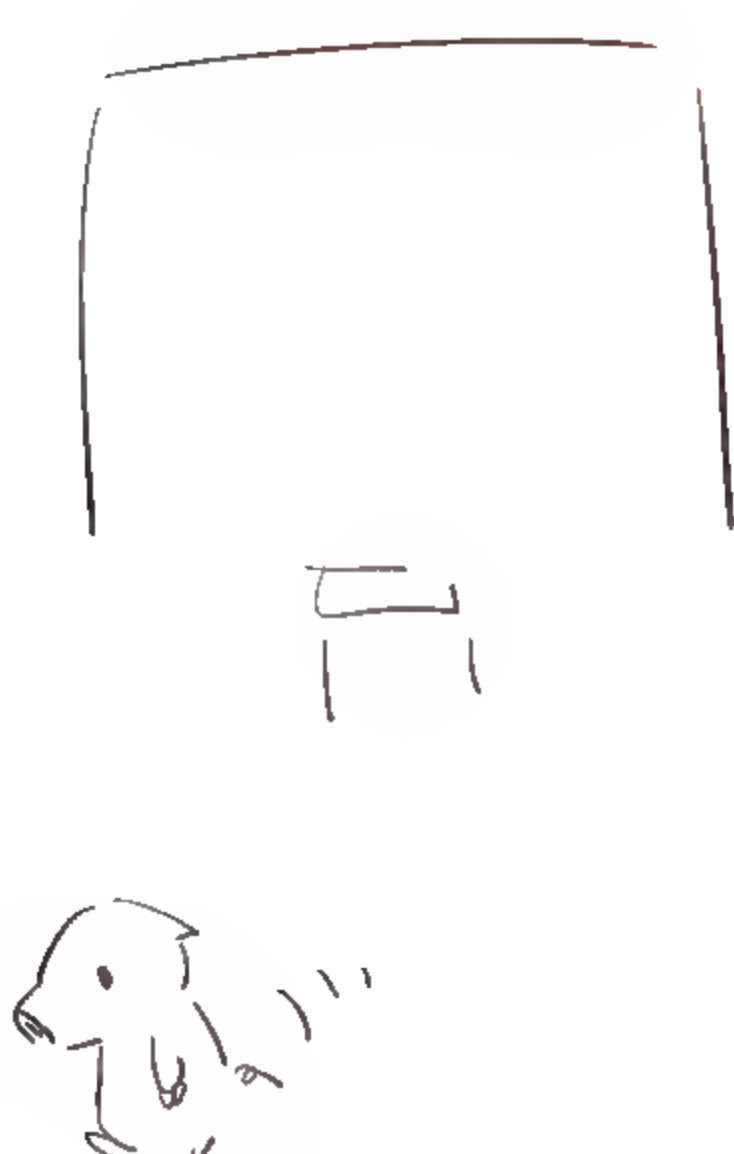

I went back to work after my head cooled down and told my manager about it.

I had no choice but to reveal my shame and to protect my pride, the manager gave me a candid talk about myself.

The memory of that conversation still gives me strength.

But in the end, I left the company.

Summer of 22

I had a conversation with my sister-in-law.

I hope you
can make your
dreams come true.

Yes

What
do you like
about it?

Well, the results are clear...

I can see how
my skills have improved.

Because the audience is very friendly, so you get
a lot of different
responses right
away...

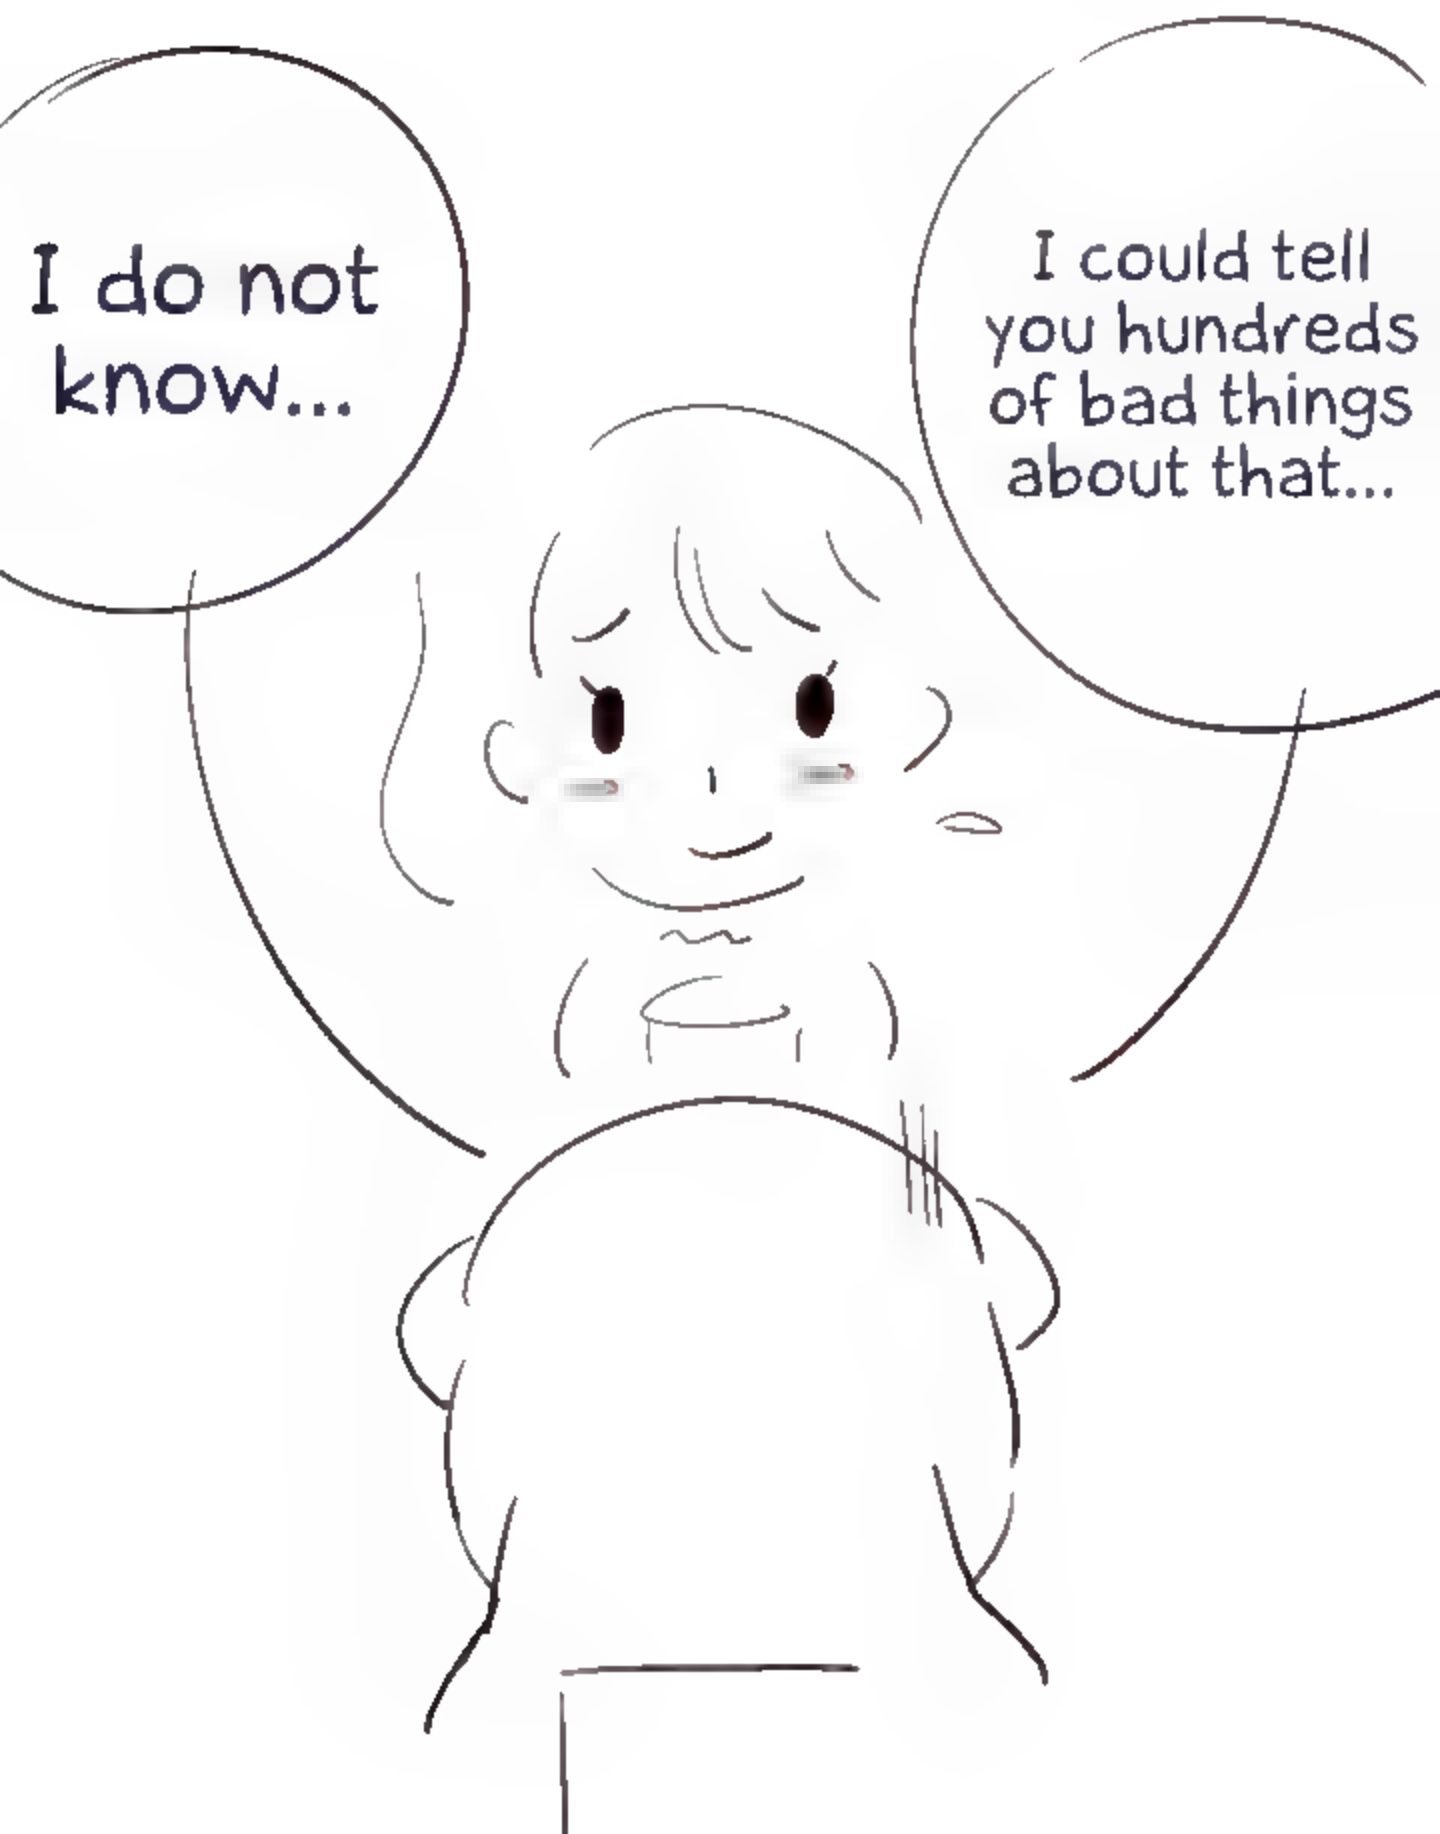

...

I'm sorry...
I'm lying

I do not know...

I could tell
you hundreds
of bad things
about that...

After some time,
my brother and
sister-in-law returned
to New Zealand.

The question she directed at me, kept replaying over and
over in my head.

I wanted to work for my readers and do things right.

But I didn't really have that mentality.

I didn't thank my former editor, I didn't thank my former manager, I didn't thank my scriptwriter, I didn't thank my colorist, I didn't thank my subcolorist.

I didn't say thank you, or good job, I've kept my words to myself because I've been going back and forth about saying silly things in the process.

The writer of the previous work 'Public Interest' suggested that it would be a good idea to write a review.

I thought I
would write a review to thank
my readers,

But Being a
coward, most of the time I
pursued my own
interests.

My conscience
was too
affected to give thanks with
pride.

So, I
decided to speak frankly.

I want to thank you, the
readers, for reading
Selfishness 100%

Sorry.

I continue to draw comics for
for my own self.

I don't want
to be cowardly

and selfish.

If you are willing
to stick it out while
I try to turn this obsolete man into
a cartoonist that
truly appreciates
his readers, I won't disappoint you.

Thank you for your support while
I was drawing
Selfishness 100%

Hi, I'm Hìjun, the writer of the 〈100% Selfishness〉

First of all, I would like to thank NaturalBread artist, who had a lot of trouble working with me.

I would like to thank
NaturalBread, Dal-i Yang, PD Seungjae, and the others that helped me with the project.

As I lacked a lot of experience,
I regret not having been able to improve at every moment, from

preparation to the end of the series.

I feel I have gained a lot of strength from the readers who have enjoyed this story so far,
and I hope they liked it.

I will strive to continue
to improve and will come back to greet you.

Lastly

We left behind Yoo Eun, who was saved for later
but didn't get to shine beyond a brief appearance
in episode 1. hehe.
